In the autumn of 1939, as the world teeters on the brink of war, three women find their lives irrevocably intertwined.

Eva, a young Englishwoman, is engaged to a man she doesn't love. When the war breaks out, she volunteers as a nurse and is sent to the front lines in France. There, she meets Tom, a charismatic American doctor, and falls deeply in love. But their love is forbidden, and they must keep it a secret.

Sophie, a Frenchwoman, is married to a wealthy industrialist. When the Germans invade France, she is forced to flee her home and leave her husband behind. She makes her way to England, where she meets Eva and Tom. Together, they form an unlikely bond and find solace in each other.

Maria, a Polish woman, is a refugee who has lost everything. She is determined to find her family, but the war has torn Europe apart. She travels from country to country, searching for any sign of her loved ones.

As the war rages on, the three women face unimaginable challenges. They witness the horrors of combat, the loss of loved ones, and the destruction of their homes. But they also find strength in each other and in their own resilience.

An Autumn of War is a haunting and unforgettable novel about the human cost of war. It is a story of love, loss, and resilience that will stay with you long after you finish the last page.
